FOUR FOOT VEIN OF COAL STRUCK NEAR CORNISH, COLORADO

CORNISH, Colo., Feb. 25.—Much excitement has been created here by the striking of a four-foot vein of coal of marketable quality, which was encountered while drillers were boring for a well on a farm near town. The coal is said to be of exceptionally good quality, similar in kind to the southern Weld county coal. A local company will be organized at once to develop the vein which is supposed to be a continuation of the one east of Eaton, which has been supplying fuel to the residents of that section for years. Cornish is on the Briggsdale branch of the U. P. and the shaft will be sunk only a short way from the railroad, a spur being built to the mine to get the coal to the cars.

Jewels Valued at $20,000 Are Still Held by the Police

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—Jewels valued at $20,000 still waited at police headquarters today for their owner, "Mrs. Josephine K. McAllister," or "McAfee" to claim them. But to recover them now she must obtain a court order.

The woman, said to be a wealthy New Yorker, reported the jewels as stolen with her canteen bag during a dinner with two men and a woman at the St. Francis hotel. No woman answering the description of "tall brunette" and of the name McAllister or McAfee has been found. It is believed she prefers to sacrifice her jewels rather than face undesired publicity.

Mrs. Josephine H. McAllister is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McDonald of the King Albert apartments of Portland.

Mrs. McDonald stated that her daughter resides in New York city and that her husband died about five years ago. She says that she had no word of the loss of the necklace and thought that if her daughter was worrying much over the loss would have communicated with her. Mrs. McAllister was born in New York and the McDonalds only recently moved here.

Professor Held for Wearing Uniform of Sailor Illegally

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—Professor John Ferdinand Hartman de Fell, former instructor of languages at the University of Oregon, is under arrest here today charged with wearing a sailor's uniform illegally. He said he was a member of the students' army training corps at Stanford university and thought that gave him the right to wear the uniform of any branch of the service.

Professor de Fell is well known in Portland, where he taught modern languages in connection with University extension courses and privately. He won some notoriety early in the war because of suspicion that he might be a German spy. While this allegation was being investigated by federal officials, he was "interned" at the University club, but ultimately was given an absolute clean bill, so far as his Americanism was concerned. He subsequently entered military service.

Bend to Improve Streets.

BEND, Ore., Feb. 25.—More than four miles of street improvements to cost between $100,000 and $200,000 will be made by the city of Bend during the coming spring and summer. As a beginning to finance the work a contract has been entered into for the sale of $40,000 in 10-year 6 per cent bonds at par to the Lumbermen's Trust company of Portland.

U. S. Major Finds 75,000 Fox Helmets

WITH THE AMERICANS IN THE RHINELAND, Feb. 27.—Major Lewis Landes of New York probably is the most popular man in the army of occupation. In his capacity as salvage officer of the third army he came into possession of 75,000 new, shiny German helmets—a whole warehouse literally crammed with them—which the withdrawing Germans had left behind.

The news spread rapidly and within a few days Major Landes was besieged with requests for souvenirs. From the number of requests it seems that every man in the army had heard about the "find" and wanted a set of helmets. Inasmuch as the helmets are worthless except for souvenirs, most of the requests were granted, and the mails are loaded with "tin derbies" homeward bound. The "cache" was by far the richest haul yet found in the helmet line. On the shelves of the warehouses were found gorgeous shiny steel helmets, with the imperial eagles embossed on the front, the curious fur helmet of the crown prince's Death's Head Hussars, and many other rare varieties of warlike headgear. As usual, a number of "souvenir hogs," scenting the loot from afar, pounced upon the "find" and the helmets were discovered trying to make away with 24 of the best steel helmets while a lieutenant-colonel managed to stagger off with 15.

Among the other material found in the ordnance warehouses were thousands of belt buckles inscribed "Gott Mit Uns," several cartons of officers' swords and bayonets.

EX-SOLDIER HELD IN MURDER INVESTIGATION

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—The police are investigating the murder of Carmen J. Sealnitz, 36, 2299 Campbell road, who was shot in the head in front of 731 Blue Island avenue.

A soldier and two civilians were seen running from the scene. By George Chambliss, owner of a coffee house at 724 Blue Island avenue, and William Street, 317 West Fifty-ninth street, Chambliss fired a shotgun at the fleeing men, but they escaped. Shortly afterwards George Sealnitz, 1425 West Twenty-first place, wearing a uniform was arrested in an alley near the scene of the shooting.

Chambliss and Street were in the coffee house when they heard five shots. Looking out, they saw the victim lying on the sidewalk and the others running. At the station Sealnitz denied any knowledge of the shooting. He said he was discharged from the army December 21.

The body was identified by Theresa Sealnitz, a sister of the slain man.

MRS. VILLA NEITHER VERY RICH OR VERY POOR

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 26.—Mrs. Lulu Corral de Villa, wife of Francisco Villa, says she is neither very rich nor very poor. A local paper recently printed a story that Mrs. Villa, who is making her home in San Antonio, Texas, was in destitute circumstances because Villa was unable to send money to her from Mexico. In a letter to the paper Mrs. Villa denied the report and said she was living in moderate but comfortable circumstances in San Antonio and was taking no part in border political affairs.

Francisco Villa has joined the army of wrist watch wearers. When Jessa Maurieta, his secretary, returned to Villa's camp after a confidential visit to the Villa junta here, he wore a large square silver wrist watch with the initials "F. V." engraved on the back. It was a present to Villa from an American friend.

"FLU" BALL IS LATEST PITCHING DISCOVERY: DELIVERY IS "MASKED"

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—"Spider" Baum, veteran twirler of the San Francisco Seals, has a new ball he will introduce into his repertoire this coming season. The Spider has a greater variety of curves, shoots and twists than any other twirler in the league.

Several seasons ago, when some of his critics were predicting that he was all in, he blossomed out in the spring with the stiffest "spitter" ever seen in the league. Now he has a new offering with which he has experimented a bit this winter. Just what it is like the "Spider" refuses to say. "I think I'll call it them 'flu' ball," he said yesterday. "You see, I mask its delivery. And if a batter ever gets a hit with it he'll go to the hospital."

Strength comes from well digested and thoroughly assimilated food. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the digestive organs and thus builds up the strength. If you are getting "run down," begin taking Hood's at once. It gives nerve, mental and digestive strength.
